

Walnuts, nice Walnuts ; ten a Penny fine cracking Walnuts.

WHEN Autumn comes and Winter fable, Walnuts often grace the table,
And after dinner relish fine
Immerged in a glass of wine ;
Or, in the evening still they're found (When merry tales and jokes go round)
A pretty picking for the Ladies ;
And hence so good the Woman's trade is,
That she, contented, near and far O,
Still shoves along her Walnut-Barrow.
